Kia ora tatou katoa, Winter is beginning to show it's true colours as we move deeper into the wheel of the year. Over the 21st to the 23rd of June we will experience Winter Solstice, the darkest time of the year. Many people in New Zealand will also be celebrating the rise of the Matariki star cluster. At this sacred and special time of year it is fitting to gather, honour the past, celebrate the present, and plan for the future. Time spent by the fireside can warm our hearts in this cold and often quiet part of the year. Enjoy this issue of the Pānui, Brooke, Pānui Editor

Andrew Crowe's Book Talk a Huge Success

We were incredibly honoured to host the award-winning author Andrew Crowe and special guest speaker Anihera Zhou Black in Colville this April. Andrew's "Pathway of the Birds" is an exceptional book, highlighting the deliberate and skilled nature of Māori and Polynesian exploration, navigation and settlement. His talk discussed how the book came to fruition, as well as some of the fascinating finds of his research.

Around 50 people packed the Colville War Memorial Hall, and the feedback from all was overwhelmingly positive. We were left in awe of the skills of these early navigators who were so in tune with the environment around them. It became clear that the navigation and population of Polynesia was no small feat and was completed by highly-skilled masters, particularly considering the huge expanse of ocean, wild weather and just how exploratory these voyages were. The research that Andrew undertook was so extensive; his pukapuka is a taonga for those interested in traditional wayfaring, ecological connectivity and the history of populating Polynesia and the Pacific.

Following Andrew's kōrero, Anihera shared her experience aboard one of two waka hourua (double-hulled sailing canoes) that were retracing a historic 5000-nautical mile voyage across the Pacific using only traditional navigation techniques. The 22-metre waka left in 2012 on an epic 10-month, 10,000 nautical mile journey from New Zealand to Rapa Nui, Tahiti and Rarotonga. Anihera captivated the audience as she spoke of her incredible voyage, including the highlights and challenges they faced (see cover for a photo of Anihera's talk).

To have a talk of this calibre in Colville was a great honour, and our project was so proud to support it happening. A huge thank you to Andrew and Anihera, and all that made the journey (excuse the pun) to be part of this incredible evening. For those interested in learning more about Andrew and his range of practical, accessible and educational books, Carson's Bookshop in Thames has the full range: carsonsbookshop.co.nz or at penguin.co.nz. -Vanessa & Cass

Mahamudra Centre Update

How often do you think about how you think?

As humans we have this innate ability to look at and question our own minds. We therefore have a choice about the sort of thoughts we allow to inhabit our mind. What if we choose to focus more on thoughts that make us happy than those that cause us suffering? Focusing on delight is one way we can do this. It can help transform our negative thoughts into something more positive.

“Delight is the delicious taste we get when something good happens. Worries fade away, frustration evaporates, and anger disappears when a baby is safely born or a friend passes their exams, when a problem is solved or a conflict resolved. Delight opens the heart.”

– pg 52, The 16 Guidelines for Life: The Basics, by Alison Murdoch & Dekyi-Lee Oldershaw

Like anything, we have to practice to get good at this. It can feel stiff at first. One way to practice is to notice when you feel jealous or envious and to consciously choose to focus on feeling delight at what the other person has or has achieved. It's not always easy but as some wise person said – “nothing gets harder with practice.”

If you would like to practice with us at Mahamudra we have started our morning meditation classes again. These are simple guided meditations that anyone is welcome to join, no booking needed, just turn up in the Gompa!

9am - Mon, Weds, Thurs & Friday with Melissa or Beth

8:15am - Tuesday with Kate

We also have retreats coming up over the winter and we would love to see you there.

You can see more about all these retreats and more on our website

For the after hours service, phone the clinic number 07 866-6618.

The On Call person will be paged by the after hours service.

Please remember - If it's an emergency, dial 111

Kia ora Community,
Thank you so much to Alan Deadman, Glen Hansen, Colin Caldwell and Hannah White for the recent firewood. We are more than grateful.

Reminder – Flu Vaccine Clinics are Wednesday's in June 12.30 – 1.30. Please call us to book in.

During May, we have had 2 visiting locums – Paul Dillon; intensive care paramedic (ICP) and Vic Ralph; extended care paramedic ECP. Vic Ralph has been a paramedic for 15 years and an ECP for the past 2. Vic has worked on mountain rescue in the UK and in rural communities in Africa. Vic has also worked as medic for the BBC.

We have been extremely fortunate to have these two visiting practitioners as this supports our regular Emergency Medical Technicians (Robyn Vinten, Aranee Corcoran and Teri Gibson). It brings new learnings to the practice and gives Dr Kate some much needed respite from carrying the majority of the after-hours/on call shift work.

We also have 2 regular locum nurses visiting in June. Juliana Williams 5th - 12th June and Diane Morreel
26th June.

Finding a regular staff member who is your preferred “go to”, someone you gel with, ensures continuity of care which we still regard as an important model as opposed to seeing someone different every time you come to the clinic.

Below is some important information about the service the clinic is providing. There may be many questions out there and we hope this answers some of them. Please do not hesitate to ask if you still have some questions.

What is an ECP?

An ECP specialises in assessing patients with low acuity conditions and providing treatment for common minor illnesses and injuries at home, referring back to the patient's GP wherever appropriate.

What is an ICP?

An ICP is a Paramedic who has completed postgraduate qualifications in critical care. ICPs are specialists in critical care, administering advanced treatments to critically unwell and injured patients and providing clinical backup to ambulance personnel at lower practice levels.

Why am I seeing 2 people when I come for my appointment?

Our senior staff have a responsibility to oversee and train all of the other clinical staff in the practice so we must ensure that they get time to do this. It is also essential that the other staff get plenty of hands on experience so the service we provide continues to expand and improve. Therefore, clinical tasks which can be carried out by other staff means that the senior staff can focus on more complex issues in the time available. Also, we have a duty of care to make sure we record your baseline medical data when you come for an appointment.

Why am I not seeing a GP?

As quoted from General Practice Owners Association Aotearoa New Zealand: "General Practice services are stretched and under threat, and people are waiting longer to see their family doctor as a result of workforce issues and underfunding". Colville has faced this issue for many years plus has the added complication of needing staff to take on the additional workload of the emergency and out of hours work. We no longer have a GP available in the clinic on a regular basis so the St John pilot is the answer to being able to provide our community with a service which we deem essential. Each time you visit a senior clinician who is not a GP, the records and notes of that appoint-ment are reviewed by a GP and if needed, guidance is given if any follow up/further action is needed. All work is reviewed and signed off by a GP.

Why can't I see Dr Kate?

Like all of us, Dr Kate also has other commitments in her life which also need her time and attention. However, when she is in the clinic, Dr Kate's main focus at the moment is to support and train new staff at the clinic which in turn ensures we can provide the best service possible to our community.

FIREWOOD *****

We are always in search of firewood at the clinic and we are also aware that some people want to help but do not have the ability to deliver some to us. If you want to help, here are some ways to do so:

- You have some firewood you can donate and deliver
- You have some firewood but need someone to come and get it
- You don't have any but would like to sponsor a load
- You want to join a working bee to help collect firewood

Any of these options are super, super helpful and of course, we are so very grateful. Any donation of any kind is so greatly received.

If you can help in any way, please call Hannah on 07 866 6618. Wishing you all the best until next time.

- Your Clinic Team

Ā Mātou Kōrero, Our Story

If you were a fly on the wall at Colville School, you would have been buzzing to join in the fun! The playful learning and inquiry happening in Kāhu and Kererū has been inspiring our children to explore, create and wonder. On Thursday and Friday afternoons the students work in small groups with a teacher to apply and practise their literacy and maths skills through scientific investigations, music, art projects, phonics games and leadership opportunities. They have been bucket drumming with Whaea Maria, building balloon rockets with Whaea Vicki, painting with Whaea Aleisha and practising land drills with the Youth Sailing Academy.

We celebrated Pink Shirt Day on Friday 19th of May with a plate of Compliment Cookies! All our students gave an anonymous compliment attached to a cookie sprinkled with PINK sparkles. The compliments and the cookies were presented at the end of the day. Let's build an Aotearoa where everyone feels safe, valued and respected by wearing pink shirts and enjoying pink in a whole new way! Ngā mihi,

Upper Coromandel Land Care Association June conservation report

CAGED KINGFISH IN HAURAKI GULF

Conservationists who care about our Tikapa Moana are not surprised that the industry of caged kingfish 'farming' in the sea will be government approved – a business that will happen 13 km off the coast in Coromandel harbour, in our already polluted and warming Hauraki Gulf. The news will be released this month by the three taxpayer funded commissioners. We are nevertheless buoyed by collaborations. UCLA has included at least one member of Forest and Bird but there has been ongoing concern regarding methods of killing wild animals, otherwise referred to in kiwi parlance as 'pest control'. How one values wild animals is the result of education and experience and is deeply personal but choosing to be humane with our possible choices of poisons has unfortunately created fundamental discord.

However, on the topic of saving our seas we are united. UCLA had the pleasure of working alongside Waiheke environmentalists, Protect Our Gulf and also Forest and Bird's Elvira van der Leden now resident in Whenuakite.

We also shared commonalities with EDS, an organisation we have definitely shared opposite sides of the aisle with regard to the layering of acronyms over land use in the District Plan.

There are real challenges to raising public awareness around this polluting industry where promoters advertise jobs as a panacea. UCLA supports sustainable earth and sea-friendly job creation but dispute the idea that caged kingfish farming is healthy for our moana or our bodies.

SPAT FARM

It would appear the Bull application is currently suspended. It is after all very close to Māori settlement ocean space so we shall see how this pans out in the future.

A fantastic 'Festival' event at Driving Creek Railway

On the 6th of May, Driving Creek Railway's conservation team with the help of Moehau Environment Group hosted DCR's latest 'Festival'. Kiwi practitioner Diane Prince presented on kiwi.

"Kiwi are prolific breeders producing four eggs every year in clutches of two. Half of those eggs will hatch, and out of those that hatch only 5% will ever get to become an adult. It takes one pair of kiwi twenty years to replace themselves due to habitat loss and predators. The number one threat to kiwi is stoats. Even though the stoat is quite a small mustelid, they will kill a small kiwi chick and are known for not eating the kiwi but tucking the dead kiwi away. The second greatest threat to kiwi is dogs and not just a big dog but even the little dogs. A kiwi doesn't have a lot of defence mechanisms and can be easily crushed".

Diane Prince holding a kiwi with her dog Neo and Tommy Herbert's incredibly well trained and intelligent dog AniAni.

Coming up this month:

*Annemieke Kregting,

Local bird rescuer Annemieke Kregting will be coming to present as part of our Winter Lecture Series which is being held throughout winter. Annemieke set up Kuaotunu Bird Rescue Trust where she worked tirelessly for the last 17 years helping rescue and save sick or injured birds. Annemieke is now actively working with DOC and the local vets to ensure native birds get the care they need and has set up a first aid room at DOC in Whitianga specifically for threatened species. Annemieke will teach us how to care for birds in common everyday scenarios in which knowing a bit of first aid might be helpful.

An First Response Unit kindly donated by The Lin Family (Formosan) binds them together with the Colville community

The remarkable generosity of Mr. Huo-Sheng Lin and Mrs. Feng-Lan Liu Lin, who funded a First Response Unit (FRU), has deeply touched the hearts of many, particularly the close-knit Colville community in the picturesque Coromandel Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Lin have been running a health and souvenir business in Auckland for nearly thirty years, leading busy lives that revolve around their work.

However, amidst their bustling schedule, Mr. Lin has found solace and joy in cultivating Bonsai trees, a hobby he began in his home country of Taiwan before immigrating to New Zealand in the early 1990s.

Initially, the Lin's had the intention of contributing to Hato Hone St John by selling Bonsai trees to fundraise for an ambulance over a period of 3-5 years. However, their plans were disrupted by the Covid-19 pandemic. Undeterred, the Lins decided to fund a vehicle and donate a First Response Unit to the Colville community.

During the ceremony held on May 18th at the Archive, the Lin family were joined by Rachel and Ken, who travelled from Australia to be with their brother Frank and their parents. The family was overwhelmed by the gesture of gratitude they received from the pupils of Colville School in the form of a heart-warming thank you poster. Callan McMillan, accompanied by his father James McMillan, an EMT officer, travelled from Colville to Auckland to meet the Lin family and present the poster on behalf of the school. The poster highlighted the powerful bond between the Colville community and the Lin family who shared: "We would like to visit Colville and the community at our next family
